VETERAN KILLS SELF IN PLANE LEAP

Six Airmen Escape Death In Parachute Jumps From Plane

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

If those two radio announcers in Oakland who broadcast the Oakland games whilst the Oaks are playing don't get together, there is one ball fan we know of who is going to have a stroke.

* * * *

Yesterday during the first game of a doubleneader, one radio announcer kept on insisting that Haney was on second base, while the second announcer declared that he was on third base.

* * * *

At one time Dumovich was pitching to two men at the same time, if you could believe the announcers.

* * * *

Speaking of radio announcers, reminds us of this alleged joke which is now going round 'n round.

* * * *

The police department gets a call from an excited gentleman, who declares that burglars are at work.

* * * *

"Where are they?" the cop asks.

* * * *

"In my hotel—no, my apartment—no, it's a friend's apartment—wait a minute and I'll find out—no, I'm wrong, it wasn't a burglary, it was a murder—wait a minute— just a minute please."

* * * *

The policeman who is properly burned up at this time, yells into the phone: "Who's this talking?"

* * * *

And the answer comes back: "This is Graham MacNamee speaking."

* * * *

Poor Graham, he takes a terrible beating at times.

* * * *

But it's no more than just after the way Graham described that famous football game at Pasadena. Or was it a football game? Sounded more like a personally conducted tour of Southern California.

* * * *

Be that as it may, there are two kinds of jokes.

* * * *

There are good jokes that one always laughs at.

* * * *

And then there's jokes told by radio announcers.

PILOT STAYS BY CRAFT IN CRASH

FRESNO, May 2.—UP—A trimotored monoplane of the Army Air Corps carrying eight soldiers was wrecked near here late today but there was not a single casualty.

Six passengers of the plane made parachute jumps while the other two, Lieut. W. A Maxwell, the pilot, and Staff Sgt. J. H. Arthur, mechanic, remained with the plane in the forced landing and escaped injury.

A broken propeller caused the mishap .

Men Jump

One after another six occupants of the plane climbed through two doors and jerked the release ring of the parachute which had been strapped across their shoulder.

The plane, a transport, was enroute from Mather Field to March Field at Riverside. It was about 10 miles southeast of Fresno, flying at an altitude of 1500 feet.

Suddenly the 'prop" of the right motor broke and flew off. One part when through a wing, the other pierced the fuselage just in front of the men. The motor went to pieces and Lieutenant Maxwell shut off the other two motors.

Sticks By Plane

At 1200 feet the pilot ordered the six enlisted men to "bail out' thru a side door and the trap door in front.

Lieut. Maxwell then looked down and saw he was over a district that was fairly well populated. He made a quick decision to stay by the disabled craft and guide it away from houses.

The maneuvering was successful and the ship came down in a vineyard .

Enlisted men were ordered to guard the plane, although it was practically a total loss. Lieut. Maxwell said certain parts might be salvaged and sent for a crew from Mather Field.

The men who jumped in parachutes reported they had no difficulty in making their descents without injury.

ELKS WILL DANCE TONIGHT

The recommendation for appointment will be acted upon by the senate and it is expected the permanent appointment will be confirmed.

To fill the vacency created by the resignation of James N. Long who was appointed supervisor of this district, Miller has been serving as postmaster under temporary appointment.

POLICE PROBE OPERATIONS OF BANK SWINDLE GANG IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.(UP)—Police revealed here today that a gang of forgers nave taken a total of $14,700 from two San Francisco banks.

Other banks throughout the bay district are making a checkup to find out if the other banks has other checks in circulation. The system used by the forgers was to steal checks from various business houses and the signatures thus obtained on worthless deposits which were quickly withdrawn.

The scheme was discovered in an Oakland bank by a clerk who became suspicious of a check deposited there, and telephoned the San Francisco bank on which it was drawn.

TWO WOMEN PAY FINES

"It's the woman who pays and pays."

At least such was the case of Mrs. H. L. Boston, 1614 Cornell street, Albany, and Mrs. A. A. Helby, 1616 Eighth street, Berkeley, who were fined $25 and $15 respectively yesterday by Police Judge A. G. Thompson, of El Cerrito. The women were charged with disturbing the peace.

According to police reports, the women were arrested in a car at Stockton street and San Pablo avenue Thursday night in company with Jack Nidreck of Charles avenue, and William Gibson, of 255 Fifteenth street, both of Richmond.

All four of the party were charged with drunk and disorderly conduct, according to police reports, but when the quartette appeared before Judge Thompson yesterday, the men were released and the women paid for the party.

Girl Dying From Fall

ALTURAS, May 2. —(UP)— Losing her footing at the top of a 100-foot lava cliff five miles from here, Ruth Baker, 16, the daughter of R. R. Baker, vice-president of the Modoc County Bank, received injuries today that may cause her death.

The girl was on a fishing trip with companions. She took a short cut and had to pass close to the cliff. After she had rolled half way down, her fall was stopped by a flat shelf, and it took a rescue party of two mountaineers and two doctors an hour and a half to reach her.

Police Seek "Whoopee' Girl

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2. —(UP)—Police today are searching for Miss Cathleen Justus, 18, a brunet, who failed to return to her home this morning after sending her mother a telegram saying she was "making whoopee"

The mother, Mrs. Charles Justus, sat up all night following the wire Thursday evening, and finally, becoming frightened, notified the police.

Onions Too Much For Stowaway

ASTORIA, May 2.—(UP)— Paul Callicotte, 'hiking sailor' or Portland, fell among onions when he stowed away on the Matson line steamer Wilhelmina, bound for Honolulu, and was caught here Thursday when he came up for air. He was "drowned in tears" and was put ashore with the pilot.

MANY HURT IN BIG STORM

CHICAGO, May 2.—UP—Storm demons wreaked their fury on eight mid-western states in a series of death-dealing tornadoes, cloudbursts and electrical displays and then smiled tonight with gentle winds and cloudless skies.

The breezes wafted over such widespread devastation, with scores of citizens killed and maimed and millions of dollars worth of property ruined, that it almost was impossible to get an adequate picture of the chaos.

Tornadoes bounced through Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri last night, plundering every region they touched. When they had reduced buildings to splinters and killed or injured the occupants, the death - dealing funnels brought cloudbursts which deluged the wreckage.

High Wind

A few hours later parts of Wisconsin, Illinois, North Dakota and Minnesota were lashed by high winds, bolts of lightning, hail and almost unprecedented rains.

The death stood at 21 when the black storm clouds finally gave way to the sun today. The number of injured was estimated tentatively at several score while the damage could be placed at millions of dollars.

Five persons each were killed in Missouri and Minnesota, four in Nebraska, three in Illinois and one each in Kansas, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Iowa.

First inkling of the storm came early last night when telegraph wires were disrupted in northeastern Kansas. Progressively the wires were torn from the poles in Nebraska and then in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois.

Dewey Veterans Prepare For Fresno Meet

Thomas Nee, commander, presided over a meeting of Admiral Dewey Camp, Spanish American War Veterans in the Memorial hall last night.

During the meeting, credentials were prepared for the delegates to the Fresno convention May 11, 12, 13, and 14.

The meeting was adjourned early to enable members to attend a whist party given by the U. V. R. auxiliary.

POPULATION SET AT 19,897

With the announcement by Edward Dinklespiel yesterday that the city of Richmond has a population of only 19,897, a concerted drive was started by city officials to bring in stragglers who were not included in the count here.

As a result, more than 50 names were added to the count yesterday by city officials.

In the face of unofficial estimates of a population between 25,000 and 30,000, the census enumeration in Richmond has caused marked disappointment .

City Manager James A. McVittie in commenting on the records, issued an ardent appeal to local citizens to seek residents who have not been counted in an effort to pass the 20,000 mark.

It was stated that a few more names would probably be added, and returns from seamen aboard Standard Oil tankers may add a few.

According to Dinkelspiel's report, El Cerrito has made the greatest gain of any city or town in Contra Costa county, showing a gain in population of more than 250 per cent in the last decade. In that time the population has jumped from 1506 to 3848.

NEW SIGNALS TESTED HERE

A new type of traffic signals has been installed at Sixth street and Ripley avenue by an Oakland company, for the approval of the city.

The new signals are the reflector type and are raised a few inches above the pavement.

The signals are so fixed that when a car is coming down Sixth street, its lights are reflected in the ruby reflecting glass on the signals and motorists driving on Ripley avenue are warned.

If the signals prove successful, they may be installed by the city at some of the dangerous intersections in the city.

STEAMER DOCKS

To load oil for Columbia river ports, the Catherine G. Sudden of the Christenson Hammond line will dock at the Richmond inner harbor today.

SAN FRANCISCO MAN JAILED; ALIEN HELD ON GUN CHARGES

Joe Graves, 23, of 925 Sutter street, San Francisco, was yesterday sentenced to serve six months in the county jail, and Ricardo Storelli, 41, of 434 Alhambra boulevard, Martinez, an alien, was bound over to the superior court on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Graves and Storelli were arrested Friday morning in El Cerrito, by Officers Floyd Gilbert and Edward Smith, while speeding down San Pablo avenue, according to police reports.

Arresting officers declare that upon searching the car, a shotgun loaded with buckshot, and a blackjack were found. Both men are alleged to have been carrying revolvers. A small quantity of liquor was also found, police say.

Working on the theory that the men may have been involved in the recent Berkeley holdups, Police Chief R. R. Cheek of El Cerrito, had the victims of the recent robberies interview the men, but neither Graves nor Storelli were identified as the bandits.

In a cross examination yesterday morning by Chief Cheek and Chief of Police Dan Cox of Richmond, the men declared they were going rabbit hunting. They made no attempt to explain the presence of the jack.

In Storelli's case, the carrying of concealed weapons constitutes a felony, and is punishable by deportation of imprisonment in San Quentin prison.

According to word from Martinez, Storelli is a fisherman of that district, and has a wife and family living in Martinez.

Graves gave his occupation as an auto mechanic.

REALTORS TO CONSOLIDATE

MARTINEZ, May 2.—Consolidation of the Richmond and other county realtor boards with the Contra Costa county board was discussed here last night at a meeting of the county board.

It was stated at the meeting that a majority seems to be in favor of this move.

E. B .Bull, Richmond realtor, was one of the speakers at the meeting. He gave an interesting talk on Industries in Richmond and Contra Costa county.

M. A. Hays, a Richmond realtor spoke on the bay barrier. Mrs. W. H. Sanford, also of Richmond, gave a talk on advertising.

Miss Azalea Sanford, also of Richmond, was in attendance.

Harbor Bill Hearing Opens

Hearing of the rivers and harbors bill, which includes the appropriation of some $313,000 for maintenance of the Richmond harbor, was started yesterday before the commerce committee of the senate, United Press dispatches from Washington revealed last night.

Engineers are to be called before the committee, to tell of the need of the work.

Early action is expected to be taken on the bill.

Shell Plant To Adopt New Plan

MARTINEZ, May 2.—By a vote of more than two to one, employes of the Martinez refinery of the Shell Oil company yesterday adopted the daylight saving plan. The new hours will become effective Monday morning and will continue through the summer months.

The Avon plant of the Associated Oil company also adopted the daylight saving hours this week.

CARQUINEZ ARRIVAL

F. C. Middlekauff of San Francisco registered at the Hotel Carquinez yesterday.

NOTE TELLS OF SUICIDE PLAN

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—(UP) —Two men plunged to their death in the San Francisco bay region today, one intentionally jumping from an airplane, and the other diving from the third story of an Oakland apartment house.

John Vucasovich, 38, of Sonora, went to Mills Field, San Francisco's municipal airport, where he hired an airplane to take him for a "joy ride." When the ship reached an altitude, he climbed out of the cockpit and dropped, the pilot being unable to leave the controls to stop him.

E. W. Strobeck, 36, manager of the American Surety company, fell from a window of his apartment. Police said he had to climb over the head of his bed to get to the window.

Vucasovich was wounded during war, and since that time he had been suffering from his wounds, according to police reports. During the war he served with Company M, of the 29th Engineers in the 91st Division. He was hit by shrapnel during the latter days of the war and for more than 12 years has required, constant hos-

[illegible] This morning he appeared at Mills Field about 9:30, inspected the planes that are for hire, asking Pilot Walter D. Olson to take him for a ride, paying the necessary five dollars.

Five hundred feet above the San Bruno marshes he climbed out of the cockpit of the plane and then leaped to his death. A note found in his clothing revealed that the suicide had been carefully planned.

Slayer Of 3 Awaits Plea

MODESTO, May 2.—UP—Charged with the murder of three men, Charles Wiley was held in jail here tonight awaiting arraignment. Wiley has been accused of shooting Joseph Barton, Jacques Fournier and D. C. Fultz. The prisoner called for deputies of the sheriff's office Monday and offered to surrender, but after waiting for them several hours escaped.

LORNA MOON, AUTHORESS DIES

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—(UP)—A career which was constantly gaining momentum despite the handicap of a long illness, had ended today with the death of Lorna Moon in Albuquerque, N.M.

From childhood she had been afflicted by tuberculosis. During the world war tragedy reached her, yet she strode unfalteringly forward in search of a career. Most famous of her works was the story "Dark Stars," written as she was bed-ridden in Hollywood.

Miss Moon was born in Scotland 30 years ago. When 15 years old, she married a young villager who went to war and never returned. With an aunt, Miss Moon moved to Canada in 1919 and entered the United States a year later. After working on eastern newspapers and magazines for a time, she came to the Pacific coast.

Shortly before her death, she sold "Dark Star" to a leading motion picture company. Many celebrities of the film colony are numbered among her friends.

In an interview from her sick bed shortly after her novel was published and acclaimed by critics, Miss Moon said smilingly:

"I don't want people to be sorry for me. Why should I? I find living in a horizontal position for two years after being perpendicular for a year, actually interesting."

Two weeks ago, she decided to go to Albuquerque, where physicians assured her the soothing comfort of the high altitude was her only chance to get well.

"Dark Star" was the story of a girl who never was sure who her father was until she plunged from a cliff to end her life after a disappointment in love.

Miss Moon also was the author of numerous short stories, some in which she revealed the tragic career of her own life.

After cremation the ashes will be sent to the author's home in Sticken, Aberdeenshire, Scotland.

Hopi Indians Start Rain Dance Today

YUBA CITY, Ariz., May 2.—UP—Moencopi, mecca of the Hopis, assumed proportions of a good sized Indian village today as hundreds of [illegible] squaws and children trailed from the enchanted mesa lands into this trading post for the summer rain prayers and dance.

Fearing a drouth, Chief Towakewptew has called his clans together. Medicine men say the signs indicate the desert peoples will suffer for lack of water this summer.

Each spring the clans gather, with the exception of the Antelope clan, which is vanishing, mainly because many of them have accepted the Christian faith.

Answering the call of their chief, Towakewptew, Indians from all parts of the mountain reservation are swarming to Moencopi with their cherished costumes designed after the Kachina doll, the Hopi rain God.

MISS ASHFIELD SPEAKS AT EXHIBIT

Miss Nora Ashfield, assistant city superintendent of schools, talking on better cooperation between the school and the home, was the principal speaker last night at the concluding evening of Better Homes Week here.

The high school band entertained the gathering at the exhibit in Odd Fellows hall with several numbers.

Speakers besides Miss Ashfield were Miss A. Alvord, from the Longfellow school talking on dietetics, and a member of the University of California faculty, who spoke on Home Gardens.

Mrs. Harry Lincoln was awarded a $5 prize, furnished by the Richmond chamber of commerce, for the best home-constructed exhibit at the display. Mrs. Lincoln [illegible] which drew much favorable comment from spectators.

A similar prize was given Mrs. George Lauritzen for the best reconstructed piece. Mrs. Lauritzen submitted a table lamp of her own design.

In the P. T. A. cake baking contest, open to children under 16 years of age, first prize of $2 was awarded to Patty Shackleford, 12, second prize to Marion Morse, 11, and third prize to Lorraine Trewhella, 8, while Emil Trekon, 8, received fourth prize.

There were 23 entrants in the contest, each of which, according to Mrs. A. Morrs, in charge of the high school cafeteria, should have had honorable mention.

The "Better Homes Week" is a national movement, with the Federated Clubs and Parent Teachers associations backing the idea in Richmond. Mrs. C. F. DeShields was appointed from Washington, D. C. as chairman of the event here.

Mrs. R. L. Wharton, general chairman of the P. T. A., and Mrs. DeShields asked that thanks be extended to the chamber of commerce, the city school heads, Women's clubs and business firms of the city for cooperation extended during the week.

Vets' Wife Sent To Chronic Ward

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—UP—A young matron, Mrs. Marie Roney wife of a war veteran, Edmund Roney now in the Palo Alto Veteran's hospital, has been placed in the chronic disease ward of the county alms house after being termed a "convalescent case" by city health officers, it was learned here today.

"I don't want charity. I want health so that I can work and support my children," the young woman cried.

Osteopaths To Attend Session At Coronado Soon

Members of the Eastbay Osteopathic society are planning to send a large delegation to the twenty-ninth annual convention of the California Osteopathic association, May 26 to 29, at Coronado.

The Eastbay society, including doctors in Richmond, Berkeley and other bay area cities, is headed by Dr. Paul K. Theobald of Oakland. It is a prominent unit of the state association.

The convention program will attract about 500 of the 1367 osteopaths in the state. Addresses on public health and advances in the science and education in osteopathic surgery will be made by several prominent California osteopaths and eastern specialists.

Albany Volunteer Firemen Resign

Protesting against the recent ousting of Fire Chief John Riley, 22 members of the Albany Volunteer Fire department recently voted to "walk out" by a vote of 17 to 5.

The ousting of Riley was the direct result of political changes in the city council of Albany, and resulted in Albany today being without the protection of its volunteer fire department of 25 men for the first time in 21 years. A paid company of firemen are the only firefighters left in the city.

HOOVER HIT IN LOBBY PROBE IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 2.—UP—Political fire and brimestone was hurled over the Republican party today in the Senate lobby committee.

One of the most vehement denunciations of a president that ever found its way into an official record was disclosed, saying Hoover was a "dry" for political purposes, while Senator Blaine, Repn., Wis., demanded in a question of W. H. Stayton, founder of the association against the prohibition amendment, if liquor purchases listed in the organization's files were not for a dinner held for a presidential candidate prior to June 20, 1928. The Democratic nomination was not made until afterward. Stayton's reply was non-committal.

The denunciation of Hoover [illegible] in a letter written by A. [illegible] Machen, Jr., of Baltimore, last Jan. 20, in resigning from leadership of one of the anti-prohibition organization's subdivisions. The letter said in part:

Scores Hoover

"To be sure, little significance can be attached to his professions, for he has always been ready to change them for the sake of what he conceives to be his personal advantage. Once ready to accept a nomination as a Democrat, he now poses as a Republican; once an advocate of that truly 'noble experiment' the League of Nations, he has now repudiated that profession; still nominally a member of the society of friends * * * (describing the Quaker Pacifist beliefs) * * * he permits the guns of the Coast Guard to be used to massacre his fellow citizens doing 'in-service to the importance of an able upright and impartial judiciary, he makes for political reasons political appointments so unworthy that even his own dry attorney-general gags at endorsing them.

"To cap the climax he has further degraded the bench by dragging it into politics through appointing three federal judges on a commission to deal with the livest political issue of the day—prohibition. He has further insulted the intelligence of the American people by packing the commission and by placing on its membership not one single outspoken representative of that large body of its people who regard Volsteadism as an ignoble failure which deserves to be execrated and scoffed at by all who are devoted to the constitution."

No Comment

White House officials asked to comment said they did not think Hoover wished to take any notice of the attack.

Stayton himself in a letter to Herbert L. Clark of Philadelphia, dated March 19, 1929, said from what he heard, Hoover has made up his mind drys will scratch men who do not do "lip-service" to their cause, while "he can get votes from the wets without exposing their cause.' Therefore, Stayton said, "as a matter of vote getting,' Hoover took the dry side.

"If he were sincerely a dry, "Stayton commented, "one might hope to convince him by argument or statement of facts, but as I know he is not at heart a dry, I must approach the conclusion that he is a dry because of the prospective profit in votes and nothing that has to do with right or wrong or with facts will make any impression upon him."

Stayton, whose forthright letters have provided sensations through their bandying of the names of the president and his cabinet for two days, was excused by the committee which appeared relieved to be finished with him. An even more ticklish task confronts the committee Tuesday, when it opens its inquiry of the activities of the Anti-Saloo nleague, probably with Superintendent Scott McBride in the chair.

ROTARY WILL ATTEND MEET

According to an announcement yesterday, nearly all of the 70 members of the local Rotary club and their wives are planning to attend the annual Rotary club convention in Oakland next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Clubs from California, Nevada, Arizona and Hawaii will be in attendance. More than 10,000 out of town people are expected.

The convention will open Thursday with a big pageant, in which 2000 persons will participate. Friday evening the "Governors Ball" will be held in the Municipal auditorium and on Saturday, a golf tournament will be held at the Orinda Country club.

K. C. Council Plans Communion

Quarterly communion at St. Mark's church will be held by the Berkeley Knights of Columbus at 8:30 mass Sunday. A mass breakfast will be served at Hotel Carquinez, and will be in the nature of "Fathers' and Sons' Day." Daniel Bradley heads the committee in charge of the arrangements.

Father B. Bowling, chaplain of St. Mary's college, will be the principal speaker.

DEATH TOLL IN TORNADOES SET AT 21, MANY INJURED

phone officials hardly knew what was happening. Then came meager reports of the devastation being wrought as the tornadoes skipped over the countryside.

At Winchester, Kan., Lawrence Stern, farmer, was lifted high in the air and then dashed to his death before he even knew the storm was near.

The tornado scooped and churned wheat, livestock, buildings and even human beings in a swath almost a half mile wide while it raced toward Missouri. There it reached a climax in the rural village of Norborne.

Five persons were battered to death by falling timbers. Almost the whole town was reduced to debris which was pelted by rain and hail while panic stricken citizens fled to storm cellars and flung themselves prone in the mud-filled streets.

Four Dead

Another tornado rushed meanwhile up the Missouri river valley and zigzagged enough from its course to distribute damage impartially in Nebraska and Iowa.

Of the four persons killed in Tekemah, Neb., north of Omaha, one was a baby dashed from the arms of its mother, Mrs. H. C. Anderson, when her farm home was lifted and then smashed.

Walthill, Winnebago, Jackson, Homer and Lyons, all in Nebraska, felt the destroying touch of the storm before it finally dissipated after flooding parts of Sioux City with a cloudburst.

Other storms brewed in the middlewest's tornado cauldron. They shot out northward, zoomed thru North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin and then finally whirled to a destructive halt near Chicago.

Cars Washed Away

A wall of water from a sudden downpour washed away the automobile of two Rochester, Minn., women and the 5 year old child of one of them. All three were drowned. Another storm killed two more women at Duluth.

Three persons were killed in the Chicago area, one at Rockford, one at Waukegan and one in the city, when a severe lightning storm accompanied by heavy rain ripped into the district.

Courage of Mrs. Lillie Lathron, telephone operator at Homer, Neb. was credited with saving many lives there. Threatened with death momentarily as the storm beat around the telephone office, she remained at her switchboard, and warned citizens to flee, until the storm had passed. Providentially, the building she was in was untouched.

RICHMOND
A Good Place For Industry

Richmond possesses, among many others, the following outstanding advantages as a Pacific Coast location for manufacturers, large and small:

Industrial acreage at reasonable prices.

Two transcontinental railroads — the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe.

An excellent harbor, highly developed, and with further improvements planned.

Two first class, modern shipping terminals.

Good streets connecting with major highways leading to other cities of the state.

A municipally owned mountain water supply and distribution system, guaranteeing an inexhaustible flow of unpolluted water. Ideal residence conditions, making for a contented labor supply.

An active chamber of commerce and an intelligently managed city government, both working together to attract new industries and to protect the interests of those already here.

RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Society NOTES

AUXILIARY TO U. V. R. GIVEN LARGE FLAG

At a business meeting of the United Veterans of the Republic auxiliary in the Memorial hall last night, the auxiliary was the recipient of a beautiful American Flag and pole for its meetings.

The flag was the gift of Mrs. Rose Doolittle and the pole was given by W. B. Keltz.

The auxiliary has been without a flag for some time, and the gift was accepted with much gratitude by the auxiliary.

Following the business meeting a benefit whist party was held under the auspices of the auxiliary.

The proceeds from the party will go toward a fund to buy a disabled war veteran in the Yountville hospital a wheel chair. This veteran, it was announced, has been in the hospital the past 10 years, and as veterans in the hospital must own their own wheel chairs, has been unable to move about.

Some time ago, the auxiliary bought him a sewing machine which he can manipulate with his hands. With the aid of the machine the veteran has been making purses which are sold for him.

The auxiliary is also raising money to buy a subscription to the Braille Magazine for the Blind, to send to the Yountville blind veterans.

Following the whist party, a banquet was served in the upstairs banquet hall.

MIRAMAR STAR POINTS HONOR GUESTS AT MEET

The meeting last night of Miramar chapter, O. E. S. was held in honor of Worothy Patron Louis Keading and Worthy Matron Mrs. Bertha Terry.

Star Points of the chapter were in charge of the evening, with Mrs. Consuela Webster acting as chairman.

Gifts of Madera napkins for Mrs. Terry and a set of sherbit glasses for Keading were presented. Mrs. Terry carried a large bouquet of flowers given her by the Star Points.

The evening's program included a saxophone duet by Keading and Walter Axelton, readings by Mrs. Virginia Bryant and acts by Mrs. Nelda Baker's Kiddies.

At the banquet table, where guests adjourned following chapter ceremonies and the program, the effect of a May pole was cleverly brought out in the star-shaped table. The table itself was covered with flowers. A gift for each of the Star Points was presented.

Star Points from many east bay cities were present at the meeting, with attendance estimated at over 200 persons.

Mrs. Emma Smiley headed the committee in charge of the evening.

PROGRAM HELD BY SCHOOL CLUB

More than 300 members of the Richmond Union high school International club and their friends were present last night at the semi-annual entertainment of the Richmond International club in the high school auditorium. Spain was the theme of the entire program.

The visitors were welcomed by Darrow Sutton, president of the organization.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Lucy Alonzo, Spanish pupil attending the University of California. She outlined in a vivid manner the customs of her native country, Spain.

Anita Chasseur, soprano, offered two typically Spanish vocal numbers, "Princesita" and "Esterlita."

Maria Faria of Alameda presented two Spanish dances, and Lois Hutchison, soprano, was heard in "Amapola," and "Mi Viejo Amor."

"Luna Castellano," and "Ay, Ay, Ay," two of Tita Schippa's favorite offerings, were sung by a male quartet composed of Edward Harlow, Edward Villagran, Wendell Neeley and Martin Crabb.

A short skit, "The Basket of Cabbage," translated from the Spanish, was presented by International club members. The members of the cast were as follows: The Traveler, Phil, Carlin; Man With Basket, Ernest Miller; Man Who Sleeps, Frank Sharpe; Station Master, Seraphin Costa; and Guard, Henry Luer.

"A Sunny Morning"

Another short skit, "A Sunny Morning," also translated from the Spanish, concluded the varied program. The cast included Laura, Elizabeth Lounibos; Gonzalo, Harman Jatta; Juanito, Edwin Brooks, and Petra, Eileen Tomkinson.

The program was directed by Dorothy Cox and Blanche Carson, language instructors at Richmond union high school.

A program, with a foreign country as its theme, is presented once each semester. The purpose of the International club is to promote inter-national good will. All students of languages at the Richmond union high school are eligible to membership in the local organization.

LINDY FLIES AIRMAIL ON TIME

MIAMI, Fla., May 2.—(UP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today maintained his record of a "flight on schedule."

With two companions he landed here at 5 p. m. (EST)—right on time—with seven sacks of mail destined to reach New York in a seven day mail service from Buenos Aires, Argentina.

He had flown during the day from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, with a stop for lunch and additional mail at Havana.

With his landing he completed another of his exploits in his efforts to bring north and South America closer together. On Saturday and Sunday he flew the first southbound mail of the new service from Miami to France Field, Panama Canal zone. Yesterday he flew from France Field to Puerto Cabezas with the first north bound mail sacks.

He made the round trip flight—his third venture across the Caribbean,—on behalf of the Pan-American Airways, whose edivision of the new mail route runs southward from Miami. Other hands will deliver the mail in New York at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Lindbergh, with co-pilot Basil Rowe and radio operator Bert Denize, left Puerto Cabezas at 5:55 a. m.

The plane landed at Miami at 12:50 p. m., ten minutes ahead of schedule.

Lindbergh left Havana at 2:41 p. m., four minutes ahead of time. At 4:27 he sighted the Floridan mainland and immediately encountered a few light showers. The fliers sighted Mami at 4:40 and landed 20 minutes later. He expects to fly to New York tomorrow.

No Verdict In Tulloch Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—UP—The second trial of Lawrence Tulloch radio man on a charge of manslaughter which was filed after the death of Mrs. Gertrude Lavine in the Telegraph Hill artist colony, ended in another disagreement here tonight.

The jury that heard the retrial failed to reach a verdict announced that there was no possibility of unanimous accord and was dismissed by Judge J. J. Trabucco.

MUNI PLAYS 7 PARTS IN FILM HERE

A novelty comedy drama, "Seven Faces," will have its first showing today at the Fox-California theatre.

A Fox-Movietone all talking production, it is a drama, adapted from a Richard Connell story that grips your interest from the start and holds it through the final fade-out both for story content and acting ability.

Paul Muni proves himself America's greatest character actor enacting seven difficult roles during the production. Each character is clean cut and entriely different from its predecessor. First and foremost, is his portrayal of Papa Chibou, aged caretaker of a French wax works exhibit. It is a sympathetic role, played with an artistry that makes the old Frenchman a thing of flesh and blood.

Other roles Muni essays are those of Napoleon, Schubert, Don Juan, Diablero the Great, Joe Gans and Willie Smith, all wax work figures which come to life. He makes each of them convincing.

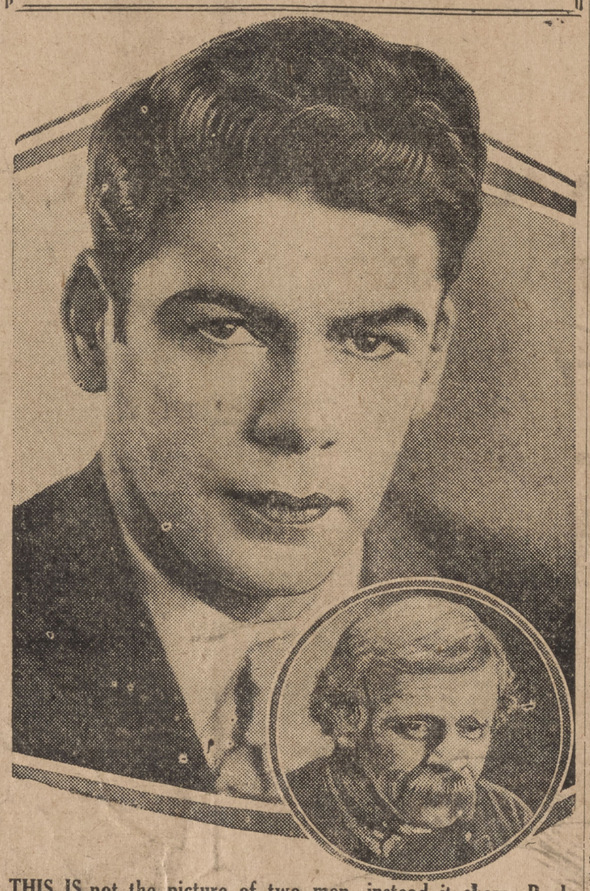
Marguerite Churchill, featured with Muni, as is Lester Lonegran, is a delightful actress and gives a performance that is charming in its sweetness and depth of interpretation.

Russell Gleason as the young Parisian lawyer in love with Miss Churchill and Lester Lonergan, as Judge Berthelot, give unusually fine performances, as also do Gustav von Seyfferitz, Eugenie Besserer and Walter Rogers.

Berthold Viertel directed "Seven Faces," and made a notable entertainment.

Krazy Kat Cartoon and talking comedy, "The Smooth Guy."

Before And After



THIS IS not the picture of two men, instead it shows Paul Muni as he actually appears and then how he looks after he has donned the makeup. Muni appears in "SEVEN FACES" at the Fox-California theater today.

CIRCUS DAY IN RICHMOND TODAY

"Hulla, Hulla, Hulla, Hulla. Step right up ladies and gents. See the greatest collection of freaks ever assembled under one canvas. See the Fat Lady. See the Living Skeleton. See the Wild Man from Borneo. Step right up ladies and gents. Only one little dime. The tenth part of a dollar. Ten little coppers. Hulla, Hul'a, Hulla."

This, the cry of the "barker," will be heard throughout the region of the Cole Brothers circus which will pull into the show grounds at First street and Parrett avenue this morning and will give two performances today, one at two o'clock this afternoon, and the other at eight oclock tonight.

There will be animals of all sizes, shapes and colors, ranging from ponies and chariot horses, to the prominent and ever present king of the jungle, the lion.

The Co'e Brother's circus carries close to half a thousand wild and domestic animals.

This famous show this year presents two outstanding features—the magnificent spectacle which opens each performance in which 200 people and 200 animals participate—and the mile-long street parade, which passes through the downtown streets shortly before noon. Many new and beautiful tableau wagons have been added to the parade equipment and what was already a vision of beauty and splendor is now a gorgeous achievement of spectacular pageantry.

Sight From Broadway

MERNA KENNEDY and Robert Ellis in a scene from "Broadway" which will be shown at the Fox-California theater tomorrow.

BROADWAY TO BE SHOWN HERE

It took years and cost untold millions to build Broadway, New York, as the pleasure highway of all the world. To reproduce two blocks of Broadway in motion picture form cost Universal proportionally just as much—to be exact, $1,500,000 for three months.

The reproduction was made for the Carl Laemmle, Jr., super-production "Broadway," the all sound film version of the sensational New York play which comes to the Fox-California theater here tomorrow. In the exterior, the reproduction was exact; in the "atmospheric" interiors "Broadway" out-Broadwayed Broadway.

The lights of the Great White Way are famous all over the earth—but, block for block, the myriad lights and brilliancy of the real Broadway are like a candle compared to the illumination used on the "Broadway" set. There were 4,000,000 watts in the night club alone; enough to supply an entire city of 100,000 population, or to furwith an entire fleet of battleships with searchlights.

From Broadway itself, where they appeared in their original roles of Dan McCorn and Nick Verdis throughout the entire New York run of the play, Laemmle brought Thomas Jackson and Paul Porcasi to play the same roles in the picture that they made famous on the stage.

Also on the program is Fox talking News and Tiotto Ruffo the Metropolitan Opera star.

TALKIES FOR RICHMOND THEATER

The talking pictures have obtained another convert with the installation of a $10,000 RCA Photophone sound reproducing equipment in the Richmond theater at Fifth street and Macdonald avenue.

The theater which has heretofore been silent, will now take its place among the best equipped talking picture theaters in California, presenting talking pictures as clear as the human voice and as perfect as scientific effort has made it possible.

The first performance with the new talking equipment will be held tomorrow with teh "Delightful Rogue" as the first picture.

SEALS SECOND IN LEAGUE BY WIN

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—UP—The San Francisco Seals went into second place of the Pacific Coast league today, only one game behind Oakland, by virtue of a seven run rally in the eighth inning.

Four runs behind at the start of that inning, the Seals filled the bases and tied the score on Wingo's home run, then a double by Gaston and a sacrifice fly scored three more runs and the Seals beat Sacramento, 9 to 8, sending the Senators into third place.

The Los Angeles Angels, fourth position, defeated Oakland twice, and were only two games behind the Oaks. In the first game Oakland had tied the score but a single by Delaney in the last of the eleventh sent in the winning run. The Angels took advantage of three Oakland errors to win the second contest, 4 to 1.

San Francisco's Missions trounced Seattle, 13 to 5, and Hollywood could not play at Portland on account of rain. There will be a double header Saturday to make up for it.

MONUMENTS TO R. R. MAN UNVEILED

SACRAMENTO, May 2.—Rearing its huge stone bulk from a spot near which he fought his early battles and won his greatest triumphs, a monument stands here today to the memory of Theodore Dehene Judah, pioneer California railroad engineer, whose vision and determination brought about the building of America's first transcontinental railroad.

Gift of the officers and employes of the Southern Pacific company, "successor" to the Central Pacific railroad which Judah inspired, the monument was dedicated April 25 under auspices of the American Society of Civil Engineers, then in national convention here.

It will commemorate for years to come the part played by Judah, as a young Sacramento engineer, in promoting the project which resulted in the Central Pacific. Judah not only surveyed the extraordinary transcontinental route of this line, but through ceaseless endeavor won financial backing for the project and saw it launched toward completion. He died, however, before the road was finished.

The monument to his memory is built of granite boulders brought from the Sierra Nevada mountains, over which he tramped 70 years ago in laying out his "visionary" railroad. On a concrete base 14 feet square, the central boulder is 10 feet high and as many feet in width. On this are carvings depicting a mountain tunnel, and old-time railroad bridge, and other things symbolic of Judah's achievement.

Following a dedicatory address by W. H. Kirkbride, engineer of maintenance of ways and structures for Southern Pacific, and an acceptance speech by Mayor C. H. S. Bidwell of Sacramento, a copper box containing documents and portraits connected with the origin of the railroad was deposited in the cornerstone by Theodore Judah of San Francisco, great grandnephew of the railroad pioneer.

J. M. Graham of Berkeley, sole surviving member of the original staff of engineers for the Central Pacific project, was among the guests of honor at the dedication.

"Honesty" Talks At Girls Meet

Members of the Girls' association of Longfellow Junior high school yesterday listened to talks on "Honesty" given by pupils of the seventh grade.

Nadine Williams spoke on "honesty in Thoughts and in Deeds" while Jenny Re talked on "Honesty in Homework." Rae Pemberton chose as her subject Honesty in Tests." Helen Nugent's talk was given on 'Honesty in the Use of Books" while Marjorie Rose spoke on "Honesty in the Gym."

"O Sole Mio" was sung in Italian at the meeting by a group of six high nine girls. The members of the group were: Betty Musso, Ida Biagini, Josephine Bertoni, Clara Valisano, Angelina Palombo, Venice Buccarelli, and Inez Bera. Violin selections were offered by Adele Thomas, accompanied by Leone Orr.

Thais Williams, president of the organization, presided.

Mrs. Parr Makes Hole In One

PORTLAND, Ore., May 2.—UP—There's something in a name after all—for Mrs. H. J. Parr made a hole in one today at the Peninsula Golf club during her second game of golf.

Just picture her walking into the clubhouse after the feat and asking: "What is it when your ball from the tee rolls into the cup?"

The astonished attendant, not knowing whether he was being taken for a ride, explained it was a hole-in-one.

"Oh! I'm so disappointed— I thought I had one of those birdies, eagles or whatever you call them" she said.

A heavy rain fol'owed and play was discontinued for the day.

PAINFUL CORNS

Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c, "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunion Remedy" 50c, (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

UNION HIGH SCHOOL GRID SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

TEAM WILL HAVE HARD SEASON

A long, tough season is ahead for the Richmond Union high school varsity gridders next fall upon the entrance of the local boys into the Alameda Athletic league competition.

According to the preliminary schedule announced yesterday by Ed Owens, student athletic manager at the local high school, Richmond will play four games on the local field and five contests away. However, there are still a number of open dates that may offer still more home attractions for Richmond football fans. The scene for a contest with the San Rafael Military Academy has not yet been decided upon.

The following is the schedule for next fall's football season for Richmond union high:

Aug. 29.—Oakland Tech here.
Sept. 5—University high here.
Sept. 12.—Open
Sept. 26—Concord there
Sept. 19—San Leandro there
Sept. 26—Concord high there.
Oct. 3—Open
Oct. 10—Open
Oct. 17—Piedmont high here
Oct. 24—Berkeley high there.
Oct. 31—Alameda high there.
Nov. 7—S. R. M. A. (place not set.)
Nov. 14—Hayward here.

LOCAL BOYS TO COMPETE IN MEET

Albert Schuyler and Howard Dalton, track athletes of Richmond Union high school, will today travel to Stanford university at Palo Alto where they will compete in the northern division track meet of the California Inter-Scholastic Federation.

Dalton won the right to represent Richmond Union high school in the 440 yard dash at Stanford today by taking second place in that event at a recent A. C. A. L. meet at the University of California. Albert won the right to compete today by finishing in third place in the mile grind at the Berkeley meet.

Both local athletes have been taking firsts, seconds and thirds throughout the season that is now coming to an end. The fine finishing sprints of both Albert and Dalton mark them as two of the strongest competitors that Richmond Union high school has ever placed upon the cinder path.

If Richmond's representatives place in today's meet at Stanford, they will win the right to clash with the winners of the southern division of the California Inter-Scholastic Federation track competition.

Wilson Team Wins Contest

The boy's baseball team of the Woodrow Wilson school defeated Kensington, 4 to 3, in this week's elementary school competition, thus enabling them to compete in the finals for the championship. The team's opponent will be Washington school.

In the girls' division, Pullman by its defeat of Harding, 26 to 24, will also enter final competition. In this division the Washington school will also be the competitor.

Many Subjects To Be Taught At Swim Week

Prone pressure resusciation, large worded but simple method of breathing for one who may be dying from a lack of air, is one of the important subjects being taught by the Red Cross life-saving expert during the Richmond "Swim in Safety Week" here next week.

Whether the person is apparently drowned, overcome by gas or smoke, or electrocuted, he may be brought back to consciousness and living by an immediate application of prone pressure resuscitation. This method of artificial breathing, simply stated, is pressure and release on the outer ribs of a person lying on his face. It is not hard to learn, but everyone needs some instructions so that the hands of the resuscitator will be properly placed, and so that the speed of the pressure and release will not be too fast or too slow.

Everyone cannot be an expert wsimmer or life-saver, but everyone can learn how to breathe for a suffocated person by prone pressure resuscitation. Red Cross experts say: "Save the seconds and save the life." Although some persons have been revived by resuscitation after 30 minutes of not breathing, the chances of saving are poorer with each passing minute.

No one should wait for a specialist when a drowning person is brought ashore. He should go to work at once, but he cannot effectively do something he has never learned. Now is the time to learn; "later" may be after a life has been needlessly sacrificed.

Tennis Club Will Enter Title Match

The Richmond Tennis club is planning to enter 13 local players in the county tennis tournament to be held at Crockett from May 17 to June 1 under the sponsorship of the Community Center club of Crockett.

The Richmond net athletes who will participate in the meet are: Clare Bryant, James Hurley, Carl Petersen, Jack Murdock, Phil Carlin, Irving Sutton, Fred Childs, Marvin Truit, Joe Zink, Darrow Sutton, Helen Dunning and Sylvia Seawright.

The entries of the Crockett Community Center club are: R. R. Rowell, T. R. Gillett, Franklin Roberts, Charles A. Wind, L. G. Bromley, and J. R. Frost.

The Oleum Tennis club entries are: Phillip Clark, Kenneth Atchinson, and Verne Vallero. Squads from Martinez, Concord, Walnut Creek, Pittsburg, and St. Mary's College are also expected to enter the meet.

Odd Fellow Nine To Play All-Star Squad Tomorrow

The Richmond Odd Fellows will engage the Smith All-Stars of Oakland in combat tomorrow afternoon on the City of San Pablo diamond. The contest is scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock.

Orr will start on the mound for the local lodgemen, while Gualdoni will perform behind the platter for the Richmond aggregation.

The Smith All-Stars come from Oakland the owners of a fine reputation. However, the Richmond Odd Fellows feel confident that they can break that reputation tomorrow afternoon. The local boys returned victorious from Concord last Sunday, and, when the heavy Richmond sluggers start swatting in earnest tomorrow, the Oaklanders will be in for a hot ball game.

LEGION JUNIOR GAMES TO BE PLAYED TODAY

Eighteen more contests will be played in the American Legion junior league competition today, under the direction of George Miner, league director.

The clash between the Giants and the McRacken Clothiers is expected to furnish the fastest action on today's American Legion card. The Giants are at present in second place in the league's standing, while the McRacken boys are rather anxious to get back into the one-two-three class. A close battle will therefore probably be played at the Richmond union high school today.

Today is the last round of the National league division of the American Legion league. The Native Sons at present possess a one game lead for first place over the Corey's squad. The other three divisions will continue for several weeks more.

The schedule for today's American league competition is as follows:

National League

Baby Oaks vs. Native Sons at Santa Fe—1 p. m.
McRackens vs. Giants at high school—1 p. m.

MARSHALL TO MEET GUS FOR TITLE

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—Everett "Lindy" Marshall has begun work on his defense and counter offenses against "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg's flying tackle hold, which is expected to be the one grip the mat king will use a great deal in his efforts to dispose of Marshall when they clash at Wrigley Field on Monday night in a finish title mat battle.

More than one defense against the tackle is planned by Marshall. He has already perfected one that is similar to the straight arm used on the football field. Marshall, however, will use an open-handed blow to the side of the head as the champion starts smashing towards his stomach.

The counter offense, with this defense, is a front headlock. Marshall has worked on this combination for several days, and he believes it will prove very effective in stopping all of the big rushes the champion makes at him from the front.

Marshall, however, does not intend to go into the ring unprepared physically, to stand up under several devastating tackles. For the past few days much of his training periods at the Manhattan gym has been devoted to attempts by his trainers to reach his stomach with a big, padded, leather-covered "battering ram."

This contrivance is handled by first one of his trainers and then another. During the first workouts with the "battering ram," the trainers smashed through all of Marshall's guards several different times for hard blows to the challenger's stomach.

During the second day, he successfully blocked attempts of his trainers to reach his stomach wth the leather-padded body smasher. He feels confident Sonneberg will never bowl him over with tackles as the champion has such stars as Ed Lewis, Joe Stecher, Joe Melcewiz, and many others.

Promoter Lou Daro has completed his supporting card for this title match. Dan Koloff, the Balkan mat lion, will meet Don George, a new-comer from the east, in the semi-windup. Nick Lutze will clash with John Spellman, former mat instructor at Brown and Ad Herman and Rex Smith will tangle in the opener.

School Swim Meet Planned

The pupils of the Richmond elementary schools will compete at the annual swimming meet at the Richmond municipal natatorium May 14 and 15. The girls' meet will take place on Wednesday, while the boys will compete on Thursday.

Three events will be run off in each of five age groups between the ages of nine to twelve years and over. The events are the one lap, two laps, and a four man relay. A banner will be awarded to the two winners of the meet. The banners have been held for the past three years by Washington and Grant schools.

The meet is under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Healy.

WEST MAJOR CLUBS LEAD EAST TEAMS

By UNITED PRESS

Western major league baseball clubs held the advantage over rivals from the east Friday in the opening games of the first intersectional series of the season. Eastern American league teams, playing in home territory earned a draw, winning two and losing two, but in the National league three western clubs were victorious, Brooklyn defeating St. Louis for the east's only triumph.

American League:

Washington's league leading Senators hopped on Sam Gray for 11 runs in the first three innings and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 13 to 5. Judge got three singles and a double in five times up, while Cronin connected for a single, two doubles and a triple in five trips, driving in four runs and scoring four himself.

Rube Walberg held the Detroit Tigers to seven scattered hits as his mates pounded out a 9 to 2 victory over Detroit. Bing Miller had a perfect day at bat with three doubles and a single in four attempts. Bob Fothergill starred for the Tigers with two doubles and a triple.

Bud Clancy's hitting and Ted Lyons' pitching gave the Chicago White Sox a 10 to 1 victory over the skidding New York Yankees. Lyons allowed only six hits and Clancy drove in six runs with two homers, a triple and a single.

Cleveland scored its fourth straight victory, defeating the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 3. Todt's homer, driving in Regan, was the only bright spot in a bad afternoon for Boston.

National League:

Jess Petty's relief pitching enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to defeat Boston 3 to 2, after the Braves had scored one run in the ninth and filled the bases with none retired. Petty forced Rhiel to hit into a double play and then fanned Clark. The victory enabled the Pirates to regain first place.

Cincinnati's eighth place Reds knocked the New York Giants out of the league lead, 9 to 8. Bill Terry's ninth inning homer gave the Giants two runs.

The Chicago Cubs nosed out Philadelphia, 11 to 8, in a free hitting contest in which the two teams made a total of 28 hits, including ten doubles and home runs by Klein and Sigman.

Burke Y. M. I. Nine To Play Pinole Tomorrow

Real baseball is expected to be played at Rodeo tomorrow morning when the Burke Y. M. I. of Richmond goes into action against the Pinole Y. M. I. The long-waited battle will take place at 10 o'clock in Rodeo.

David Paoli will start in the box for the local aggregation. Aleck Morrison will receive for Richmond.

Louis Accomazzo, former Richmond Union high school Varsity twirler, will take his position on the mound for the Pinolians. Hank Claeys will be behind the plate for the Pinole nine.

The Richmond Y. M. I. baseball outfit is regarded with great awe among its brother organizations of the Eastbay, and the Pinole squad will certainly have to stage the hardest battle of their career if they expect any satisfactory results in tomorrow's contest.

William Watson Clark turned in his first victory in five starts to give the Brooklyn Robins an 8 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

CITY LEAGUE WILL OPEN MONDAY

Richmond City Twilight League baseball for 1930 will get under way Monday with a membership of six of the fastest diamond aggregations in Contra Costa county.

The members of this year's city league are: Odd Fellows, Standard Oil Company, Firemen, Mechanics Bank, Lions Club and the Native Sons.

The first game will be played Monday evening between the Standard Oil nine and the Richmond Od Fellows. The lodgemen have been making a strong showing in pre-season competition, and the Standard Oil compay of Richmond is renowned as a producer of athletes of the highest calibre. Monday's season beginner, therefore, is expected to be a classic of local baseball competition.

The league will be directed this year by George Miner. J. Graham will be the official umpire for all league games.

Games will start at 5:15 p. m.

The schedule for the coming season of the Richmond Twilight Baseball league, is as follows:

May

5—Standard Oil vs Odd Fellows
6—Native Sons vs Lions Club
9—Firemen vs. Mechanics Bank

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Love WILL Find a Way!

GIRLS, have you seen what they've been and gone and done to yo up at Albany—
With summer coming on, 'n June weddings, 'n everything—
For that matter, not only the girl friends but the boy friends
Ought to feel all hot and bothered!
The reason is that Gov. Roosevelt has just signed a brand-new law
Which prohibits the parking of automobiles
On the State highways outside of cities and villages,
And which apparently strikes a fatal blow at the most cherished romantic institution of modern youth—
The automobile petting party!
For six years, agitators who perhaps have forgotten that they ever were young
Fought for this measure, and at last
Assemblyman Milan E. Goodrich of Westchester put it across,
With a fine of $50 for the first offense
And a possible term of six months' imprisonment, for the second—
Such is now the high cost of parking and petting, in and around New York—
Who but the rashest and richest of swains will consider it worth it?
Oh, well, the defenders of the anti-parking bill argue
That roads will be much safer—
To say nothing of souls!
Perhaps they're right, though we've often doubted
If all automobile petting parties were devices of the devil—

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

You see, we were brought up in the country, in pre-motor days,
Where one-arm buggy-riding was a recognized part of the technique of courtship,
And where a careful driver frequently took an hour or so
To drive his girl a mile or so, between dance and domicile!
What the anti-petting—that is to say, the anti-parking law does make us wonder
Is how, where and when young lovers of the near future
Are going to do their stuff!
It's all very well to say that courtship should be a parlor sport—
With characteristic altruism, that is what Roscoe Rau, director of the National Retail Furniture Association, told the delegates the other day.
A new divan in the parlor—according to Mr. Rau—
Is what is needed to make the world safe for Romeo and Juliet.
"If every mother," he feelingly declaimed, "could see the advantage
"Of creating a proper home atmosphere, by means of furniture,
"She never need worry about the whereabouts of her daughter."
Furniture dealers, he solemnly reminded the dealers assembled,
"Should feel a moral obligation
"To uplift the tone of the American home"—
Via Grand Rapids, C. O. D.!
Yes, BUT—how can the newest and most beautiful furniture
Keep the young folks petting in the parlor
If there IS NO PARLOR?
There isn't, of course, in many and many a New York apartment—
Thanks to congestion and $15 plus per room.
How can love's young dream be dreamed
In an apartment with one general utility living room for the family?
The two who are That Way
Can ride atop the busses, or visit a dusky motion picture theatre—
Only both resorts are so darned public!
Lovers can seek a secluded park bench—
But so can an embarrassed and embarrassing cop, carrying a flashlight!
They can go, as soon as it's warm enough, to some of the less crowded beaches—
We happen to know that there is still room for romance at Rockaway Point!
By and large, however, the way of the modern metropolitan lover
Is at least as hard as the way of the transgressor,
And the two—we insist, in defense of youth—are NOT necessarily synonymous!
Love will find a way—but no longer, says the new law, a State highway—
Love WILL find a way—but, if things go on as they're going now,
It will take some finding!

EASTER PARADE

All the flowers of springtime
Are envious of the glow
From costumes, green and crimson,
That sweep in endless flow
In bright parade at Easter—
Like soldiers row on row.

Bonnets with smiling posies
Rival themselves in hue
And, fresh from Paris workshops,
In sparkling retinue
Nod, as they march—and twitter
In gayest rendezvous.

How can a warm red tulip
Or daffodil compare
With perfume from old laces—
Fragrance of some one's hair:
And so the flowers of springtime
Are jealous everywhere!

MARGUERITE JANVRIN ADAMS.

WHO SHE WAS

Children of the American Revolution, together with the D. A. R., have been meeting in Washington at Constitution Hall. Its Lafayette suite contains authentic Du Barry furniture, and, says F. P. A. in The Conning Tower, "the fun will begin when one of the C. A. R. says to the one of the D. A. R., 'Mom, who was Du Barry?' Well, a friend of ours heard a Cook's English guide at Versailles answer the question. Pointing to an exquisite sofa, the austere cicerone informed his party. "That belonged to a PERSON by the name of Du Barry!"

WITH A SCRAP-BOOK OF CARTOONS AND JOKES

Be thankful for the foolish folks
Who furnish life with all its jokes!
The dull and tedious rich and great
Who rule the realms of gold and state
Are so discreet they never dare
To drop their safe, important air,
And not a thing they say or do
Is ever worth attending to.
It is the silly folks whose slips
Bring welcome laughter to our lips,
Whose folly is worth more by far
Than platitudes of great ones are.

J. H. WALLIS.

Sticker for a Husband's Shaving Mirror

Baron de Meyer, style expert, says that an old suit, a battered hat, a perfect tie and a good collar make a well-dressed man. They also, praise be, make his wife well-dressed—she has so much more money to spend!

China Closet Transformation

A HANDY woman painted her dining room furniture in the summer bungalow a rich green and she gave the glass doors in the china closet a novel treatment. She painted them green to match the woodwork and when dry she applied a stencil design in colors on the centre of each door and in each corner. It is a great improvement as a piece of furniture and the contents of the closet are not in full view.

A DISH A DAY

By Karen Hollis

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Large shipments of asparagus began to move into the New York markets from the New Jersey agricultural centres last week and now the price is low enough to encourage the housewife to serve it frequently. Unlike many other fruits and vegetables, the early asparagus is often the best of the crop, being more tender and less stringy than that which will come later.

KAREN HOLLIS

The cooking of asparagus is not a process to be approached lightly or casually. Carelessness, and particularly overcooking, can result in reducing this tender vegetable to a pulpy, unpalatable mass.

To hoard the precious vitamines and retain the fresh green color, asparagus should be cooked in an uncovered pan in a very small amount of boiling water. Under no circumstances should a pinch of soda be added to the water, as foreign chefs sometimes advocate, for extensive experiments in medical laboratories have proved that, while this helps in retaining the color, it releases the vitamines which are so important in building health.

The exact time for cooking young asparagus cannot be given, as it varies according to the age and freshness of the greens. They should be carefully watched while cooking and removed from the boiling water the instant they are tender. In some cases it will not require more than ten minutes boiling.

Many people like asparagus served only with seasoning and melted butter, but for a change try serving it with either of these delicious sauces. They are sure to make a hit with your family. The sauce should be prepared while the asparagus is cooking and during the last few minutes before serving dinner, so it can be served at once.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

¼-pound butter
2 egg yolks
Juice of one lemon
½-teaspoon salt
¼-teaspoon white pepper
Dash of paprika

Divide the butter into eight pieces. Put one piece in the top of a double boiler, over boiling water. Reduce the heat under the pan, so the water boils gently. When the small piece of butter is melted, stir in the egg yolks and add three more pieces of butter, gradually stirring all the time with a wooden spoon. Add one-half the lemon juice and then alternate butter and lemon juice in small amounts until it is all used. The sauce will thicken like mayonnaise. Add seasoning and serve at once.

CHEESE SAUCE FOR ASPARAGUS

2 tablespoons butter
¼-teaspoon salt
⅛-teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons flour
1¼ cups milk
¾-cup grated cheese

Melt two tablespoons butter in a double boiler, add seasoning and flour and rub to a smooth paste. Add milk gradually, stirring all the while. When the sauce has thickened stir in the grated cheese and heat, stirring constantly, until the cheese has melted.

White as Black's Accent

THE combination of black and white or the reverse is as old as time, but there is a new way of allying them. There is a difference in this effective contrast this season over former years. Black and white are not mixed haphazardly. Instead there are great spots of white in a costume comprising a black suit, white flower, white hat, black patent leather shoes and a white patent leather bag. The effect is startling, but it is extremely effective.

The white hat and the white bag are the unusual accents in such a costume. And so smart is the white hat that it is predicted a white millinery season is about to arrive. This is not the natural shade or the eggshell, but dead white. The large white ballibunti hat with the black patent leather belt and a white buckle used to band the crown will be a smart complement to the black or the black and white summer frock.

The Housewife's Scrap Book

When steaming dumplings cover the kettle with the cover of a glass baking dish so you can watch the cooking dumplings without raising the cover and taking a chance on their being heavy.

An inexpensive floor polish to use for the extensive spring renovating can be made by mixing equal parts of vinegar, spirits of turpentine and sweet oil, then well shaken together in a bottle.

To curl celery, cut it in two-inch lengths and with a sharp knife fringe the ends, leaving a little connecting space in the middle, cover with cold water and after three hours drain and serve.

Mexican Patio Dining Room for The Modern Pent House Home

CERAMICS from Mexico are the materials used for this unique patio designed by Mrs. Frances Paine, which was seen by many visitors to the International Flower Show. It is intended to show how Mexican handicraft may be employed for pent house, roof garden or for outdoor gardens.

The space occupied is only 10x11 feet, yet eleven people can be served at the table, which has a fountain at its centre. Orange and green are the predominating colors in the scheme. The chairs to be used with the table are of pigskin and are said to be the oldest type of chair in use to-day.

Mrs. Paine is introducing Mexican applied arts in this country under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation. She adopts the old traditions of Aztec and Spanish Colonial Maya handicraft to the needs of modern architecture.

The Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Gardening for Beauty

THERE'S a light in the amateur gardener's eye. A light that no beautifying tonic in the world can better.

There's a glow on the cheek of the planter of growing things that is priceless and matchless.

FRANCES OLIVIER

And the waist line of the gardener is more likely to be more supple, if not more slender than the waist lines of most other folk.

For mild and joyous exercise there's nothing quite so beneficial as coaxing grass and flowers out of a tiny patch of earth. One is outdoors, one is stooping and bending, always on the move—but not so vigorously as to harm the heart—and one is close to the tonic soil and having tons and tons of fun!

"Fun is it?" we can hear the husbandmen of acres scoff. "It's hard labor and often heartbreak in the bargain!"

But just between ourselves, these grumblers get a lot of joy out of their jobs. Anyway, we aren't advocating the gardening of large plots—try and get them! No, for purposes of sport and health and beauty culture, the average four by six backyard is grand!

If you have neither front lawn nor backyard, there's plenty of roof gardening to be done. Box planting, you know, and you can get out of it as much exercise, hard labor, fun, health and beauty as you have room for!

What no roof? Oh, to garden, of course—the landlord being a meany. Very well then, go wild flower hunting, picking violets, daisies, scraping for arbutus. There's a back strengthener and a rejuvenator of the entire torso. The close contact with earth, as was suggested before, is a veritable tonic to the whole being too. At the same time there are the benefits of a sun bath and a country air bath.

But just one word of caution to the gardener. Do protect your hands. Oh pul-eese! For garden hands are awful things. The skin hardens and harshens and gets discolored, the fingernails break off or stay on and look gray and dirty. Sometimes freckles come. And what is lovely about a freckle-speckled hand?

Guard your hands for gardening with special garden gloves. And after every bout with Mother Earth give the hands some simple beauty treatment. A cold cream cleansing, for instance, followed by a rubdown with a halved lemon, or a bath in starch and water. To make protection sure, smooth a little vanishing cream into the hands before putting on the gardening gloves.

Try These

Use a small inexpensive teapot for melting paraffin. It can be easily poured from this, and if used just for this purpose it need not be emptied. The wax coverings taken from the jellies, &c., can be placed in the teapot to be re-melted and used again.

A single asbestos glove long in the wrist is a convenient article in the kitchen. If the iron holder gets hot put on the glove, wear it when you baste the roast or remove hot pans from the oven and when stirring hot foods on the range.

Instead of putting paper in the dresser drawers, why not paint the inside of each drawer with lacquer in a pastel color?

Pointers on Pruning

IN THE spring, as soon as the weather has become settled, hybrid perpetuals and tea roses should be pruned. It is difficult to tell each grower how much to prune. A safe rule to follow is: "Weak shoots should be pruned the most; strong shoots the least."

Brier roses which are generally used as shrubbery borders rarely require any pruning. Some of these varieties, Harison's Yellow and Austrian Copper, refuse to bloom if cut back. All such roses do better when practically left alone. Any dead wood, should, of course, be removed.

All hardy climbing roses, both of the Multiflora and Wichuraiana parentage, should be pruned after they have finished flowering.

Early flowering shrubs should be pruned after they have finished blooming. Remove old wood that has flowered; cut away each shoot to another branch or eye. Leave all healthy young growth that has been made this spring. In pruning always try to retain the natural habit of growth of each plant. Some of the shrubs that should be pruned after they have finished flowering are as follows: Amygdalus (Flowering Almond), early flowering Deutzia, Forsythia (Golden Bells), Lonicera Fragrantissima (Honeysuckle), Syringa (Lilac), Jasminum Nudiflorum, Philadelphus Coronarius (Mock Orange), Spirea Thunbergi, Pyrus Japonica (Japan Quince) and Magnolias.

Summer and fall flowering shrubs should be pruned in spring. Some of these are as follows: Honeysuckle (fruited), Symphoricarpus, Viburnum (fruited), Barberry, Lycium (Matrimony Vine) and Celastrus (Bittersweet).

Evergreens require very little pruning. When pruning is desired, it should be done in the early spring before growth starts. Hemlocks are exceptions. They may be pruned at any time. They may also be pruned as severely as it is deemed necessary to keep them in good shape.

Think It Over

By Alfalfa Smith

I AM informed by a person who should know that when a great financier was on his deathbed he said:

"The difference between a poor man and myself is that I have found out that money will never make me happy. He has never found out, but he thinks money will make him happy. The knowledge that it will not make me happy is what makes the difference between the poor man and myself."

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

"DAD, how do letters die?"

"Die. Letters don't die."

"Why don't letters die? Are they like King Darius?—'Oh, King, live forever!'"

"No, they don't live forever, neither do they die. A letter has no life; therefore it cannot die. It can only be destroyed."

"Didn't you say you received a letter which had been returned from the dead letter office?"

"Yes, certainly, I did."

"Hadn't that letter died?"

"Oh, go to bed."

Cleansing the Tiles

A HOUSEWIFE was discouraged when the cement on her tiled floor came out in the form of powder, and she asked what to do about it. Questioning brought out the fact that she had used muriatic acid.

You sometimes hear of those who consider this a good tile cleanser, but this woman was not familiar with it. Perhaps if she had not used it so strong and had removed it without delay she might have had no disastrous results, but why use acid at all?

Tiling if cleaned regularly can be kept bright with warm, soapy water quickly applied, rinsed and thoroughly dried. A tablespoonful of paraffin to a pail of water will help and polishing them with a little skim milk and water will make them glisten.

If much soiled, rub with a cut lemon and allow it to remain about fifteen minutes. Never be liberal in the use of water on tiles.

ANOTHER NEW RACKET IN JUNE

GETTING a theatre ticket in New York after June 1, when Al Smith's board will eliminate ticket scalping:

STRANGER (arriving at Grand Central Station and buttonholing a cop)—Where can I get a couple of seats to "Up in Lizzie's Boudoir" for to-night?

COP—Sir, at the box office, of course. That's the only place it's legal to sell 'em.

STRANGER—But I understand you can't get better than the sixteenth row there. I want to be down front.

COP—Say, are you trying to get around the law? I got a good mind to run you in.

• • •

(Stranger goes to hotel room and rings for bellhop.)

BELLHOP—Anything you wanted, sir?

STRANGER (furtively closing the door)—Listen. I want two down-front seats for "Up in Lizzie's Boudoir" for to-night. How about it?

BELLHOP—Why, no, sir, I don't think you can get them.

STRANGER—I'm willing to pay any price. Come, come; don't be afraid.

BELLHOP—I'd like to help you out, sir, but last week a bellhop over at the Hotel Giltedge sold a pair of aisle seats to a guest and yesterday they padlocked the place.

STRANGER—Well, how about the house physician? Can't he give me a prescription that I'm hard of hearing and need seats in the fourth row?

BELLHOP—I don't think so, sir. They could arrest him for malpractice for doing that.

STRANGER—All right, then. I'll try some way else.

• • •

(Stranger walks on 48th Street, just west of Broadway.)

STRANGER (to passing citizen in checkered cap)—Say, buddy, where can I get a couple of good seats for to-night?

CITIZEN (looking cautiously up and down street)—See that brownstone house three doors from here? Ring the basement bell and ask for Gus.

(Stranger does as directed. Gus looks through peephole in the door and lets him in.)

GUS—What'll you have?

STRANGER—I want a couple of good seats for to-night.

GUS—How do I know you ain't a dick?

STRANGER—I give you my word I'm O. K. Look, here's my Elk's card, from Titusville, Pa.

GUS—All right; come into the back room. Now name your choice.

STRANGER—Gee, look at all those colored tickets in the racks! Don't tell me they are all genuine!

GUS—Good locations, every one of them. Not an Annie Oakley in the whole place.

STRANGER—Could you sell me two to "Up in Lizzie's Boudoir" for to-night?

GUS—Sure. The seats for "Lizzie's Boudoir" are running good this week. Here's a nice pair a steward on the Moronic brought me in to-day.

STRANGER—You get your theatre tickets off boats, too?

GUS—Sure. The box office man slips 'em to a confederate who takes the tube to Hoboken. Then he gives 'em to a middleman in Atlantic City, who takes a motorboat twenty miles out in the ocean and smuggles 'em aboard a passing liner.

STRANGER—Quite a system! Well—how much?

GUS—Thirty-one dollars for the pair. They come high because we have to fix the Coast Guard and the cops.

STRANGER (smacking his lips)—Well, they're worth it.

GUS—If you like them seats, come around next week [illegible]

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

GOLDEN DAWN

by MARC O'FARRELL

Copyright 1930, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS

Crouching in her room, above the canteen, in the little settlement in the British Protectorate of East Africa, Dawn listens to weird sounds from below. She is to become the mystic bride of the black god Malunghu. From all sides natives pour into the clearing for the strange ritual that will make her sacred. Dawn only wishes she may have a last glimpse of her sweetheart, young Tom Allen. She is desolate to think she is being wrested from him forever. Hasmali, chief priest, assures the natives that their deity is pleased to receive Dawn for voodoo bride. Sister Hedwig and Captain Eric, commanding the German detachment that has seized the settlement, arrive.

INSTALLMENT THREE

Captain Eric was easily upset by any native demonstration. Though a competent soldier and leader, trusted by the natives, nevertheless was more cautious than valiant. His inadequate garrison gave him lively misgivings. His military knowledge told him that his troops vastly outnumbered by the blacks, could not hold the settlement in the event of a revolt of the natives. It was prudent, therefore, to keep the natives from growing discontent.

But the commander was sometimes cursed with impatience. His German practicality brooked no voodooistic nonsense such as greeted him when he and Sister Hedwig entered the clearing before the canteen. He grumbled to Sister Hedwig, but she, to whom all life was the exercise of patience, dissuaded him from interfering.

"What, exactly, does it all mean?" he demanded.

With some hesitation Sister Hedwig explained the ceremony of the marriage of Malunghu. Captain Eric's growing annoyance was mirrored on his countenance, and when he learned that Dawn had been selected as the bride his rage could no longer be contained.

"But you see, Captain Eric," protested Sister Hedwig vainly, "the ceremonies have started. I'm afraid it's already too late to save her."

Ignoring the pleadings of the nun, Captain Eric rushed over to where Mooda stood, his displeasure all too evident in his face. Mooda stiffened in anticipation of his rebuke.

"Mooda, what does this mean?" began the captain heatedly. "I've told you my government will not tolerate any pagan nonsense."

Mooda refused to yield. "It is our religion, Captain Eric," she answered. "You have yours—but we want ours."

"It is part of our religion to see that there are no slaves under a civilized flag." The German officer's tones were edged with sarcasm and he hoped that Mooda would understand the insulting implication of his speech.

Mooda understood, too. She appreciated the futility of exchanging insults with the military command and resorted to savage stubbornness. "We obey our German fathers in everything." She looked up at the captain to ascertain just how he had received this acknowledgment of German sovereignty. His face expressionless.

"But," added Mooda fiercely, "my daughter, Dawn, will be a goddess."

The commander grew scornful. "You mean, you're locking her up for life with a grinning wooden image!" He laughed to notice Mooda's eyes blaze and hands clench at his ridicule. He would have continued to rip her superstitions to tatters had not Sister Hedwig interposed her soft-spoken protest.

"Your daughter," continued the nun in persuasive tones to Mooda, "has studied at our convent. We have taught her Red Cross work; we have taught her how to read."

Mooda nodded a grudging acknowledgment of the nuns' helpfulness to Dawn. But always jealous of Dawn's talents, she immediately regretted this admission.

"Dawn is almost like her white sisters," the nun went on. "She loves us and we love her."

"I do for my little Dawn what I think best," said Mooda grimly.

Further argument was interrupted by a sinister call, almost indistinguishable, that came from beyond the clearing. Hearing it most of the natives fled in consternation toward the jungle, their frightened warnings proclaiming the arrival of "kiboko" and "Whip man!" The piper made off, muttering, "Shep Keyes is coming."

Aware that an encounter with Shep Keyes would be unwise at the moment, Captain Eric found it expedient to accompany Mooda and Sister Hedwig into the canteen.

Shep enjoyed a strange lordship in the jungle

"I no talk about Dawn when that black devil can hear," insisted Mooda, referring to Shep. And Shep, coming into the clearing in time to hear her, grinned with savage satisfaction to see the white master yield the ground to him.

Shep was a creature of extremely hideous appearance, the countless stories of his insupportable cruelty seeming to impart to his features an additional ugliness that some mocking creator had forgotten. A giant in stature, he also was a man of magnificent physique. The fine muscles of his back and upper arms flowed under his cotton shirt like untroubled water. His chest bulged forward challengingly, receding to a trim waist-line whence his legs tapered symmetrically to his rough-skinned bare feet.

Shep enjoyed a strange lordship in the jungle. His was not an authority bestowed by the two pathetic military crosses he wore pinned to his cotton shirt, but an authority won by strength, cunning and cruelty. The natives, whom he despised, feared him and obeyed him. On such occasions as they failed to do so, they were mercilessly flogged with a long new-hide whip which he always carried. As he sauntered into the clearing he cracked this whip about the ears of the scattered natives who were late in fleeing to the jungle.

This cracking whip also served to punctuate his chanted boast that he needed "no brains to hold the reins so long as he had the whip to inflict the pain." He continued, in a voice that almost set the canteen to quivering:

"I am de big boss of dem all,
You must bow down to me, black or white,
Yo' got to ben' you knee."

And it was no idle boast, either, this insolent boast of Shep's.

Somehow Shep had succeeded in dimming his past in two disputed legends, both of which he encouraged and neither of which he disclaimed. At some time in his misty past he had visited Cairo and Paris, and so familiar was he with certain wretched strata of life in those cities he was regarded by the natives as a black blessed with the white man's culture.

LOCAL SCOUTS GET MERIT BADGES

The board of review of Richmond Boy Scouts met last night at Lincoln school, awarding merit badges to 14 local Scouts.

Those receiving the honors were Edgar Gearhart, Clarence Vaughn, James Marks, Paul Miller, Teddy Moist, Eric Drillard, Frank Latone, Donald Bignall, William Alberigi, Meryl Burns, Eugene Aperson, Laverne Cooper, Harold Tomlinson and O. Schoffield.

Second class awards were received by Paul Anderson, Russel Dehn, Earl Cheek, Donald Lark and Teddy Webster.

Those receiving star rank were: Eric Drillard, William Alberigi and Meryl Burns.

The awards were given in the following subjects: firemanship, leading, woodwork, first aid to animals, first aid, public health personal health, electricity, printing, cooking, civics and pathfinding.

Local Scouts leaders will hear Professor Tully Knoles, president of the College of Pacific, at tomorrow's meeting. He will talk on "The Measure of a Good Scoutmaster and a Good Scout Troop." Case problems will be discussed following the lecture.

Tomorrow will mark the end of the course for Scoutmasters, which has been pronounced successful by all participating.

A course in advanced first aid, sponsored by the American Red Cross, will be held during the month of May on each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon and evening throughout the week. Dr. L. Hely, assisted by C. A. Patterson and L. J. Richards, will instruct the classes.

Besides the Scoutmasters, the entire Richmond police department and members of the fire department will be enrolled.

Former Director In Liquor Net

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—(UP)—King Baggot, who once was prominent as a film director, was fined $50 in municipal court today after having been arrested while slumped over the wheel of his automobile, assertedly intoxicated.

Baggot entered a plea of guilty and protested that the fine was too great, but the court refused to lower the amount. William Collier, Baggot's companion, was held on a liquor possession charge, but was released.

X-ray Photo Says Baby Girl Right

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—UP An excited father carried his 19 months old baby, Dolores Manion, into a hospital here today and declared she had swallowed a tack. "It doesn't hurt a bit," Dolores hastened to assure physicians but they worked fast, rushing her to the X-ray room. Negatives were developed swiftly and proved that Dolores was right—there was no tack inside of her.

MILLIONS LOST AS STOCK MART HITS SLUMP

NEW YORK, May 2.—(UP) — A last minute break in the stock exchange today sent stocks precipitately downward for their greatest drop since the demoralized sessioi of last November 13.

Liquidation was of tremendous proportions. Trading totalled 5,986,330, more than on any day since the November debacle.

Before the break the list had been improving under the leadership of U. S. Steel. Then, suddenly Steel crumpled and the storm broke. Lightning-like selling soon started in the principal issues on the board and prices melted away millions of dollars in a few minutes.

The suddenness of the assault took the financial community unawares, and it was several minutes before anyone knew what had happened. Stunned by the intensity of the selling, traders quickly threw their stock overboard for what it would bring.

The principal declines were made in the best issues on the list and many of these made new lows for the year or longer. The lower priced shares which had been thoroghly sold of late, rested while the professionals fought it out with the high-price leaders.

Commodities were not affected. Cotton closed down 7 to 12 points but was not particularly active. Wheat held its own well and closed only fractionally lower.

Notable among the issues to sell off were the so-called Morgan stocks such as U. S. Steel, United Corporation, Johns-Mansville, Consolidated Gas, United Gas Improvement, Standard Brands and the Van Swearingen rails.

Bankers generally were not supporting the market. The explanation given in some quarters was that they were too busy in making preparations for flotation of some huge reparations loans to pay attention to the stock market. From other sources came the information that business conditions did not measure up to expectations and the leaders were unloading their stocks accordingly.

Heaviest losses for the day included Allied Chemical, 16; American and Foreign Power, 8 1-4; American Power and Light, 9 7-8; J. I. Case and Colorado Fuel, 5 3-4 Columbia Gas, 4 1-4; Corn Products, 5; Eastman Kodaks, 12 1-8; Electric Power and Light, 13 1-2; Houston Oil, 12; International Telephone 6 5-8; Radio, 6 7-8; Standard Gas, 5; Vanadium 7 1-8; and Westinghouse Electric 9 3-8.

Richmond Sciot Meet Attended By Berkeleyans

Following a 6:30 dinner at the Richmond club house last night, Richmond Pyramid of Sciots held a business meeting. J. W. Smiley, toparch, presided.

The dinner was in charge of a committee headed by E. C. Lambrecht, who also rendered a solo, "Molly."

Visitors from Berkeley Pyramid were present headed by Toparch L. D. Browning. It was announced that Past Toparch's night would be held in honor of the eastbay toparchs' at the Berkeley Pyramid Friday night. Members of the Richmond Pyramid will attend in a body.

A committee consisting of H. W. Patterson, William Barry and J. W. Smiley will attend the Oakland Sciots Luncheon club this Tuesday noon.

Delegates from all eastbay Pyramids attend these luncheons in an effort to boost Sciotry in the eastbay. Preparations have been discussed by the committees for a large ceremonial to be held in the eastbay.

Plans are being completed for a pilgrimage to eastbay Sciots to Antioch Pyramid in honor of Supreme Pharaoh E. C. Worrell, of Antioch Pyramid.

On May 10, members of the local group will join with Alameda Sciots and visit the Dakota home, according to an announcement last night.

Suicide Span Claims Girl

PASADENA, May 2.—(UP)—The famous "suicide span" over the bridge, claimed its 24th victim today—Arroyo Seco, the Colorado street day—a pretty young woman.

Miss Ester Estes, 25, climbed to the top guard and leaped to death on the rock-strewn bed 120 feet below. Numerous automobiles were passing over the long bridge as the young woman jumped.

Antioch Masons To Fete Anniversary Of Lodge Birth

ANTIOCH, May 2.—The 65th anniversary of the Antioch Masonic lodge will be celebrated next Saturday night, and will probably be attended by members of lodges throughout the county. The Naval lodge of Vallejo will confer the third degree at this time and a program will be presented.

The lodge was founded May 8, 1865 and was called "Claiborne Lodge". In November a charter was granted, but as Grand Master Claiborne requested that the lodge not be named for him, the name was changed to Antioch Lodge.

CLOTH USED

The automotive industry used 47,000,000 yards of upholstery cloth in 1928, according to the California State Automobile association.

Dr. Bishop Talks To Local Rotary

"Industrial Hygiene" was the subject of an address delivered before the Richmond Rotary club yesterday by Dr. C. O. Bishop, resident physician of the Standard Oil company. Henry A. Johnson was chairman of the day.

Bishop told in his talk what large employers of labor and leading life insurance companies are doing to prolong life and improve the health of the public.

The doctor told of the 10 year period of annual medical examinations of 16,800 policy holders of a large insurance company, and declared that during that time it was found that 42 percent of those examined who were expected to die during that period, were alive and well at the end of the ten years.

El Cerrito Men Fined For Games

MARTINEZ, May 2.—Arrested in a raid last Wednesday, Harry Hyatt and D. Williams, proprietors of two clubs in El Cerrito were today fined $100 each for operating slot machines and punchboards in their establishments.
